Graduate School Enrollment Rates

Description

As part of Institutional Goal #4, CCBS tracks the percentage of graduates who pursue additional education at the master's or doctoral level. Many CCBS graduates continue their studies to meet credentialing requirements or to prepare for advanced ministry, counseling, or academic roles.

Methodology

The Graduate School Enrollment Rate is collected annually through the Survey of Recent Graduates and reflects the percentage of graduates who report having completed or currently enrolled in a graduate degree program. This measure supports Institutional Goal #4 by indicating readiness and motivation for advanced study. CCBS evaluates results using a 25% minimum threshold and a 50% aspirational goal. The rate is based on graduates answering "yes" to the question: "I have completed or am currently enrolled in a graduate degree."
